

Autism 101

Seattle Children's Quarterly Series

Seattle Children's HOSPITAL · RESEARCH · FOUNDATION

Attention to all parents, families, friends, and professionals touched by autism.

Please join us for Autism 101, a free 90-minute lecture intended for parents and families of children recently diagnosed with an autism spectrum disorder (ASD). Lecturers provide up-to-date and evidence-based information regarding the core deficits of ASD, the variability and presentation of behaviors associated with autism, prevalence and etiology, treatments available, and resources. A portion of each session is dedicated to answering questions from the participants.

Classes are held at Seattle Children's Hospital or the Seattle Children's Autism Center from 7:00 to 8:30 p.m.

Please note the various locations the Autism 101 classes will be taking place this year.

Lectures can be live-streamed online through WebEx. For more information and to sign up to view from home, please visit our website:

seattlechildrens.org/classes-community/current-class-offerings/autism-101/

Class details

2020 Schedule:

Jan. 23, 2020: 7 to 8:30 p.m. Wright Auditorium
Presenters: Rachel Earl, PhD & Valori Neiger MS, BCBA

Apr. 23, 2020: 7 to 8:30 p.m. Seattle Children's Autism Center*
Presenters: Karen Sporn, ARNP & Daisy Ma, MSW, Ed.S.

Jul. 23, 2020: 7 to 8:30 p.m. Wright Auditorium
Presenters: Jennifer Mannheim, ARNP & Andy Lupas, PhD

Oct. 22, 2020: 7 to 8:30 p.m. Room RC.3.905 near the River entrance
Presenters: David Camenisch, MD & Jim Mancini MS, CCC-SLP

Questions? Contact the Autism Center at 206-987-8080